

Brigid Fitzpatrick Perhach spent her first nine years in education teaching first, second, and fourth grade in both rural and urban settings. A genuine desire to help students learn to read prompted her to pursue a Master of Science in Education with a Literacy emphasis.

In 2005, she transitioned to a Reading Coach position, working with K-6 teachers. This work gave her a new passion for preparing and supporting educators in best practices for literacy, with a focus on data analysis, effective strategies, and teacher team collaboration.

In addition to spending most of her life in California, Brigid has also lived and worked in Montana, including the Northern plains and the Fort Belknap Reservation. Her background in working with many diverse demographics, provides her an enriched and culturally responsive way to create, plan, and refine teaching practices and systems of support.

Brigid currently serves as a consulting associate at Partnering for Impact and is a Curriculum & Instruction Specialist in Central California. She is a systems thinker, dynamic presenter, data expert, and trusted coach.

Brigid has successfully supported numerous school leaders in cultural, academic, and systematic improvement. Her mission is to provide professional learning that leads to effective teaching practices, improves student outcomes and supports leadership. She hopes to create an environment where educators are engaged in reflection and learning that results in insight, action, and impact.

Brigid enjoys reading, writing, traveling, Crossfit, yoga, and spending time with her family.

Brigid can be reached at brigidperhach@partneringforimpact.org

She is also on twitter @prtnrng4impact